

Trail Damage on Bells Mountain Trail

The recent storms have caused some small trees to fall across the trail and a larger tree to fall creating a hole in the trail. Someone has put a couple of logs into the hole as a temporary repair. The logs are a little slippery and mountain bikers and equestrian riders need to be careful at this spot. The damage is about 0.25 mile north of the Cold Creek Day Use area.